Tired of being the “shefault” parent responsible for all aspects of her busy household, Eve Rodsky counted up all the unpaid, invisible work she was doing for her family—and then sent that list to her husband, asking for things to change. His response was...underwhelming. Rodsky realized that simply identifying the issue of unequal labor on the home front wasn't enough: She needed a solution to this universal problem. Her sanity, identity, career, and marriage depended on it. The result is Fair Play: a time- and anxiety-saving system that offers couples a completely new way to divvy up domestic responsibilities. Just like you, I'm a Child Care Boss! I'm that woman who had to face my own challenges of emotional hurt, rape, drug abuse, foster care, and family rejection. Instead of breaking down, I leveled up! I started my own childcare business because I wanted a place that would be a constant, safe anchor for children.

When everyone and everything else was unstable in their lives, my childcare business would be the constant, anticipated place for children to call home. That's some crazy mess, right? Starting a childcare to help children? We all know that any business takes money to operate it, right? So why did "some" of my community parents hate me so bad for making money doing what I loved? Why did these people NOT understand that I had to borrow money, sell cookie dough, pawn my jewelry, van titles, and tv's to start my business. Oh the disrespect! But that's not the ONLY problem. Read my story of how my dream became a nightmare. The haters, ungrateful parents, two faced staff, slow parent co-pays, social media slander, federal tax payments, early mornings and late nights. Get my behind-the-scenes truth of working with envious parents, racist state inspectors, behavior challenged children, back-stabbing staff and the life I lived that inspired me to become a childcare owner! A true rags to success story! If you are afraid to read the truth, this book is NOT for you! Childcare can get UGLY! TAKE A READ FOR YOURSELF!
