The Commonwealth Department of Education and Training contracted the Centre for Program Evaluation at the University of Melbourne to conduct a systematic review of the key determinants of effective teaching, this report presents the findings of this review and presents recommendations for the use of these review findings in the context of teacher evaluation and professionalisation in Australia. A systematic review of academic, grey, and policy documents that identify teacher quality characteristics and how they relate to school, teacher, and student outcomes was conducted. Based on these findings, recommendations were developed for how these findings can be used with the Review of Teacher Effectiveness Systems, Frameworks and Measures to inform teacher evaluation in Australia. Key concepts include: teacher characteristics; effective teachers; teacher evaluation; teacher personality; teacher behaviour; teacher self-efficacy; teacher communication; teacher attitudes; teacher expectations; teacher quality; teacher motivation; collegiality; self-reflection; cognitive capability; and cultural competency. [Introduction, ed]

A History of Key Characteristics in the Eighteenth and Early Nineteenth Centuries Elsevier

"The purpose of this study was to look at the importance of trust for successful leadership and thriving organizations ... The level of trust an organization holds, not only impacts relationships and effectiveness, but also the bottom line. Given the evidence, this body of research found six key traits of the trustworthy which follow: capable and competent, conscientious and committed, congruent and high character, collaborative and able to connect, compassionate and caring, and clear and candid in communication."--leaf 4.

Summary of Key Characteristics for Selected Graphics Systems

This is a revised second edition of Dr. Steblin's important work on key characteristics, first published in 1983 by UMI Research Press and re-issued by the University of Rochester Press in 1996. The revision has been limited to a thorough correction and update of the material in the first edition, so as to not disrupt the content and organization, for which the book has been praised as a significant and noteworthy reference for both scholars and research students alike. The book discusses the extra-musical meanings associated with various musical keys by ancient Greek and medieval-renaissance theorists and in particular composers and writers on music in the Baroque, Classical, and early Romantic periods. Chapters focus on Mattheson's extensive key descriptions from 1713, the Rameau-Rousseau and Marpurg-Kirnberger controversies regarding unequal versus equal temperaments, and C.F.D. Schubart's influential list based on the sharp-flat bright-dark] principle of key-distinctions. Rita Katherine Steblin is a world-renowned music scholar, living and working in Vienna.

Based upon over 20 years of international management experience and a variety of third party research this book details 15 key characteristics and attributes that all leaders need to build a successful, long term business. Management checklists and specific examples of how each of the characteristics have been applied by the world's most successful business managers are contained in each chapter. This book also includes over 150 interview questions that can be used to help determine your best future employees based upon how well they match these 15 characteristics. It will quickly become invaluable to anyone wanting to hone their management skill and for those that will be tasked with helping to develop the next generation of ""Millenials"" now entering the workforce.
